

ROSS ADAM COLE

AIA, IFMA

PRINCIPAL, PRACTICE LEADER: NATIONAL

Ross co-founded BAM Architecture Studio after winning the New Enterprise Award of New York University's Stern Graduate School of Business. His clients include well established and emerging names in the corporate, healthcare, science and technology worlds. He's led design teams that continue to push the envelope on trends, from incubator labs to the first hybrid operating suite at Yale New Haven Hospital to master plans and campuses.

Ross received his Architectural degree from the University of Maryland and is a registered architect in multiple states. He's an active member of the AIA and IFMA where he served on several committees.

Ross is responsible for quality control and client satisfaction in implementing the client's requirements. He is the focal point of information flow between the client, consultants, and BAM's staff. He spearheads the required architecture process, coordinates various disciplines, enforces quality control, and administers the project so that the schedules and budget are met.
